Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I have read through the settlement and agree. It seems fair without being destructive to Microsoft and outlines fair business practices and treatment of competitors, OEM's, etc.

I would not have agreed with splitting the company or forcing it to release it's code, which would be unfairly advantageous to Microsoft's competitors.

I also think the settlement will help Microsoft's products and other software products to work better together, enabling computer software technology to advance at a faster pace, which, of course, is advantageous to consumers.
